

I do not want the major telephone companies to have control over my internet service. I have enough trouble with Verizon cheating me on my phone bills it's false advertising. I recieved a call about a "great new program" that has turned out to cost 3x what the great price was quoted to me. I sure don't want to have to deal with that with my ISP. I like my independant company that still treats me like a person and not a number. I speak with THE general manager of my ISP and not someone who has no earthly idea what is going on as I do when I call Verizon. Don't the phone companies have enough to handle? Which they do pretty poorly at that. Our ISPs are fine just the way they are.

Thank you, Colette Tabor
